

IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM FARM KITCHEN

9 January 2017

'We are writing to make you aware that some of the allergen information was displayed incorrectly on our website for January/February Menu's.

It has been brought to our attention that a number of dishes for W/C 9th January onwards did not have the option to press the 'A' symbol next to the dish and therefore did not display the correct allergen details.

All current and future menus are now displaying correctly.

If you have ordered meals for this term and would like to check any of the details of the allergens please do not hesitate to contact us and we can email you a full list of dishes and associated allergens for this term.

Many apologies for any inconvenience caused'.
